Music Camp 2019 is designed to bring together low vision, blind, and Deafblind youth ages eight to eighteen from across the province for eight days on Bowen Island, BC, to learn the basics of playing musical instruments, build peer support networks, have fun, and gain confidence essential for full and equal participation in school band and other music programs in their communities alongside their sighted peers. Campers will explore the beginner band curriculum and will participate in an end of camp concert that their families, friends, and the Bowen Island community will be invited to attend. Giving campers skills and confidence in music fundamentals means campers can go on to take part in school band and community music programs.

Low vision, blind, and Deafblind students face significant challenges when beginning in music programs due to the highly visual nature of the methods commonly used in beginning band and other forms of music instruction. Our program is designed to give students a foundation of skills and confidence that they can use to bypass visual instruction by taking them through the first part of the beginner band curriculum in a non-visual manner that sets them up to succeed in mainstream band and music programs alongside their sighted peers.

Like all of Camp Bowen's summer camp programs, Music Camp 2019 balances recreation and skills learning, with a focus on fun! At Camp Bowen, fun is at the core of what we do. Camp fires, hikes,, community outings, and board games are just some of the activities we offer. The skills taught through these fun activities prepare youth for truly life-long independence.

Going to Camp Hornby?

If you are going to Camp Hornby's outdoor program, ending on July 23, 2019, we will be meeting campers returning from Hornby Island at Horseshoe Bay Ferry Terminal in West Vancouver and providing transport to Bowen Island. We will also have laundry services available at a cost of $10 for campers wishing to travel lighter between Hornby and Bowen. Both measures were put in place to ensure campers attending both programs would not need to worry about being able to make it to both.

Working with the West Vancouver Youth Band

Camp Bowen staff are very pleased to be working alongside volunteers from the West Vancouver Youth Band to provide this exciting program.

A Price to Celebrate!

How does paying $0 sound? We were originally charging $20 for camp registrations to mark the first time alumni have been invited to come and perform alongside the current year's campers, bringing two generations of Camp Bowen campers together for an end of week concert that is sure to be full of fun and music. Now, thanks to an anonymous donor all camp fees have been waved. Anyone already registered has not been charged for camp fees.

Camp Bowen and its partners will cover all food, accommodation, and instrument rental costs.

End of Week Concert

At the end of the week, campers will have the opportunity to show off what they've learned in a concert that their friends, families, and the Bowen Island community will be invited to attend. There will also be a video filmed of the event that campers will receive a copy of.

The end of week concert will take place in the evening of Wednesday, July 30, 2019. In an effort to make the concert as accessible to as many audience members as possible, the concert will begin at 7:30 PM that night and will conclude with enough time for families leaving the island that night to make a ferry. Families returning via Departure Bay Ferry Terminal near Nanaimo will also be able to make the last ferry leaving Horseshoe Bay Ferry Terminal.
